Aransas Passis one of the Texas points which a few years ago attracted general attention in connection with projects for the contruction of harbor improvements. There was great rivalry between those places. Galveston was the do with such things. most prom nent, being the best known as well as the most populous. Aransas Pass made itself felt, however, and it looked at one time as though the project for construting a deep harbor there would be carried out. But the panie come on, and all such enterprises fell to the ground. Now, with reviving trade the project is renewed with what seems to be an excellent chance for success.

Whether a channel deep enough to adsels at Aransas Pass can be secured or the Texan just waited: not is an open question, but there seems to be little doubt that a channel of 20 feet can be obtained. This would admit most of the ships that are used in the Gulf trade, which is the main consideration. Aransas Pass could be developed into a great importing place even though its channel were not deep enough to admit shine of the heaviest deaught.

It is needless to say that if the work on the jetties succeeds it will give a great stimulus to the growth of the ad-Texas, and something like the old interest in its future will be awakened. It may in time become a shipping point for D-nver and much of the r maining country lying far back from the Texas const. As a rival of Galveston and New Orleans it would be welcomed by the toterior cities, which would thrive through competition between the Gulf ports. - Danver Republican.

APACHE KID.

Terror-L. A. Herald. The Apsobe kid is what they call the Indian outlaw whose name has a faccination, a terror for every dweller upon New Mexico. Its mention will cause the most daring frontiersmen to clasp his children trembling to their mothers from their play. The person who thus terrorizes this wild region, where ordinary crimes pass current, is a renegade Apache Indian with all the devilish ingenuity of that flendish race. His Indian name is Es-kibi-Nadel, and he is under 30 years of in general. age. He was educated at the Hampton Indian school, from which he was sent to the government reservation at San Carlos, Ariz., where he was trained as a scout for the regular army. His natural aptitude soon made him familiar with military tactics and the mode of scouting and fighting of the United States troops. But neither education nor association with the white men could repress the savagery of his nature, and he incited an outbreak among the Indians on the Indian reservation and set fire to Hunter, Alex-2 the school house. This offense was promptly punished by the arrest of the Kid and seven of his followers. On the 2d of November, 1889, while they were by the sheriff and his posse, they broke Lugo, Felix their bonds near Eliverside, Ariz., killed Madril, Santisgo the sheriff and escaped to the Sierra Madre mountains, in the province of Sonora, Mexico, just over the line from Arizona and New Mexico.

That was the begining of a career that has no parallel in Indian atrocity. Secure in these arid mountains, who every approach is guarded by a barrier of nature formidable and awful, with trackless mases of desert sandbills, and having only at great distance water holes and patches of cultivation—here the Kids band has been constantly increased by disselected indians from the reservations and from Mexico, They have raided the border and penetrated far into the interior, leaving a trail of blood behind them. They are even now destroying the homes of ranchmen, waylaying travelers along the desert re ambushing gold-seekers in the arid hills picking out cowboys on their lonely ranges, stealing into settlements in the stillness of night, plundering and killing the sleeping inhabitants, until hunduring the past four years.

Though rewards of $5000 by the gov ernor of Arizona and $2000 by the governor of New Mexico have been placed upon his head and repeated expeditions of government troops have been sent out for his capture, he has thus far eluded pursuit, ranging over a vast extent of country, comprising thousands of square miles, where no white man can follow for lack of water. Every day repeats the story of his crimes. At unexpected times the Kid appears in many different guises, but he s usually dressed as a Mexican, with a mulated in forcing to the impact of drooping sombrero, a flannel shirt, belt, cinders which united with the hot air trousers and top boots or shoes. In this attire, with his square, swarthy face, compact figure and careless grace, he sion that shook the entire plant. Four looks more like a Mexican than an Indiau, and this effect is heightened by his perfect Spanish speech. He rides in advance of his band, solitary on a wild muetang, scanning the horizon and planning his raids, often making his

The Kid does not by any means con-fine himself to forays and murderous outrages. He has a passion for stealing girls for wives. His first achievement n this line was the capture of Jo ash ay, so they were thrown out. an Apache maiden whom he took from the door of her wickiup on the San Carlos reservation in September, 1890. He next secured the mild-faced Natheth-lay, who was but 13 years old. He came upon the girl and her mother at Oibicu crossing of the Sait river on the reservation May 17, 1892. He killed the mother and made captive the daughter, but released her shortly after and she returned to the reservation. His third victim was Nah-tahgo-yah, the daught-er of Indian scout Jack Long. She was forcibly taken by the Kid from the reservation October 25, 1802. While he was engaged in this abduction his first wife, Jo-ash-ay, escaped from his camp and made her way to her reservation alone. She has since acted as guide for the troops in pursuit of the Kid. was through her that Jack Long effected the rescue of his daughter.

The most notable expedition hitherto ed against the Kid was in 1892 by Lieut Williams of Fort Whipple, near Prescott Ariz. He took a detachment of thir teen!Apsche scouts, keen scented as bloodhounds. They struck the trail of the Kid and followed him for weeks sometimes camping in the evening, where he had camped the previous night, till the trail led further and furwhere they were compelled to abandon their quest, not being permitted to cross their quest, not being permitted to cross Eaking Powder holds its supremacy. ther into the arid region on the south, where he sought refuge.
